

Senior Portraits

(On location by appointment)

As our children grow and begin to define their lives, we find ourselves in a panic wondering where the time went. We now find ourselves looking at Senior Portraits which means our children are almost ready to graduate from High School. How do we as parents capture these last fleeting moments before our children spread their wings and begin their lives outside the confines of our house? There are a number of things we can do, but senior portraits are a good place to start. We not only have a picture of our son or daughter, we have captured their prelude to adult hood.

You ask why my prices are lower than the competition? It's simple. I don't have a studio. Without the extra cost involved of having a studio ie, gas bill, lights, phone etc, I don't have the overhead. All my photos are taken on location. I primarily use the local park for the traditional shots and the rest are street photography.

What is street Photography? Street photography is where you use the buildings of your local town, primarily main street, for the background. With buildings using different sidings, lawns, railings . . . etc, one can produce unique and one of kind portraits.
